P. N. Wheeler, 2 North Main St., Barre. Basis on Which Forces of Capital and Labor Might Amaigamate. Edwin B. Wheeler, in the New York Journal, suggests a solution of the labor problem. He says he "would lke to see"-

Capital and labor upon a recognized basis of equality of profit sharing.

PROFIT SHARING PLAN.

Labor contributes three hundred days of labor at $4 per day, amounting to a value of $1,200 per year. Capital, basis, invests $20,000, which at 6 per cent, the legal rate of interest in New | September 5. York state, amounts to $1,200 in one year. Here is an equal investment, If the owner of the capital also puts his labor in the business as well as his has new just resigned that position capital, of course he is then entitled to to act as superintendent of the schools such salary as would be paid to one at Arlington, N. J. who ranked next higher than superintendent or general manager. Profits beyond the payment of the amount of payroll and the legal rate of interest on capital should be shared equally between labor and capital, labor's share being apportlened among one-fourth pounds. workers pro rata in proportion to the amount of yearly earnings of each.

Capital risks loss; so does laborboth loss of employment in case of business fallure and loss of earning capacity in case of iliness, accident or injury while employed.

All troubles between labor and capand specious buncombe on the part of factory about 600 tons of corn which agitators until there is some well will be shipped to Brattleboro by known, recognized basis for a fair freight. The factory at Westminster and equitable division of the burdens also is being gotten ready for a big of production. Capital must beware season's work. of encroachments upon the rights of labor.

Itself but the product of labor, it is as easily destroyed as created. What I would like to see would be Object to Cutting Weeds on Vermont a general adoption of this or any satisfactory basis for fair agreements between two forces that should never be at war with each other,

Labor is mighty in force and is much oppressed. The law of supply and demand, if that the cutting be done once during not subjected to the tactics known to August and September, is by no means manipulators of the market in Wall popular with the farmers.

Highways, But May Have to.

Rutland, Aug. 19 .- The act which compels landowners to cut weeds, brush and trees along highways and which has really just become effective as it provides land which abuts the highways, much less land that does not belong to them and to which they hold only a reversiontry right.

Atty-Gen. Fitts, who has an eve to beautifying Vermont's roadsides, has notified the state's attorney to enforce the law and every selectman has also received instructions. If the landowner does not do it the law says that the owner's expense after proper notice.

gainst the enforcement of the law is had done some whitewashing for him that all ferns, daisies, goldenrod and other wild flowers and shrubs which beautify the roadside come within the scope of the phrase "grass, weeds and fambly ain't got scar'cely 'nought to cat, shruga" and to cut them would soon make the highway borders look barren.

AGREEMENT FINALLY SIGNED.

Option on Crowell Water Supply Has Been Obtained.

Brattleboro, Ang. 49.—The agreement right down here, that you know that Bill between George E. Crowell, owner of the village water supply, and William H. Vinton, James F. The option ex-tends to October I, 1909. If the three men decide to buy, they will pay $20,000 on or before January 1, 1909, and the balance of the purchase price of $200,000 within nine mostles of that time. A petition that the bailiffs call a special village meeting to act on the question of buying the system is pending, but in view of the fact that now is an inopportune time for floating municipal ends, it is not anticipated that the village will want to buy at present, al-though the bailtiffs have no alternative but to call the meeting unless the peti-tion is withdrawn. NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

Exchanges.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid.
